ISLAS SECAS

GULF OF CHIRIQUÍ, PANAMA

Islas Secas is a private archipelago off Panama's Pacific coast offering an ultra-secluded, low-impact luxury escape centred on nature and privacy. Accommodation is spread across standalone casitas and villas, each designed for complete seclusion with open living spaces, private terraces, and ocean views. The experience is highly tailored, with a strong focus on marine exploration, from diving and snorkelling to island-hopping across the protected reserve. Dining is flexible and guest-led, with menus shaped around preference rather than structure. Service is discreet and highly personalised. Best for clients seeking a remote, conservation-led stay with exclusivity, space, and a strong sense of place rather than traditional resort programming.
